Shopping for a pickup truck can be a fun and interesting adventure, but for some people it can be highly stressful and demanding. To keep things as smooth as possible, before you start visiting dealerships, like the Ford dealership in Bumble Bee, ND, make sure you write down all your must haves and nice to haves. Most people find that making a list keeps them on track while they do the actual truck shopping. There are so many types of pickups to choose from, it helps to have a set idea of what you really need, know what's in your budget and what's available currently for sale. Keep your list with you as you shop and refer to it often when you get overwhelmed by choices. Having many choices is a good thing, but sometimes having too many can be daunting and confusing. Keeping the process simple and not trying to do everything in one day will help the process tremendously.

You should know that some of the newest pickup trucks have great features that didn't exist even as recently as five years ago, like voice command and Amazon's Alexa built-in, automatic pedestrian alerts, and parking assist. These new features may seem like overkill, but all of them make your truck safer. Alexa can be used to make phone calls and ask for directions, hands-free, parking assist will help guide you when a clear line of view is diminished in the rear of your vehicle. Having these extras in your truck might even lower your car insurance. Some may be necessary for you, others may be something you can live without. It's always better to err on the side of safety.

Aside from a written list, you might want to do some Internet research and print out images of the style and colors you really want in your vehicle. Having these printouts with you as you shop for trucks in places like the Bumble Bee, ND, Ford dealership will help jog your memory and keep you focused and aligned with your goals when things get hectic. Write down notes on the printouts about what packages appeal to you most and which features are "must haves" for you and which you are able to do without. Are there certain colors you just can't live with? Do you dislike red? Or totally love it? Then write that information down! Perhaps there are some absolute requirements, like having an extra long bed for transporting wood or other work or personal items. Whatever your needs are, write it all down on your printouts or in your list. If you've been comparing prices, and packages, then you should add that information as well. With a little planning and patience, you'll soon own the pickup of your dreams.

SUV crossovers are gaining in popularity and road space these days. Part of the reason is their versatility and driveability. They go from black tie affairs to off road adventures and everything in between. One very popular SUV is the Ford Escape. If you've been to Bumble Bee, ND and seen some of the newest to hit the lot, then you're aware of this vehicle's good looks and low profile. Some advantages crossovers have over bigger trucks is that they are comfortable to sit in for long drives and they hold a lot of cargo. They are better on gas and grip the road well. Steering and handling is excellent and they are very good looking with an array of colors and options to choose from.

Bumble Bee, ND has many Ford Escape vehicles to appreciate if you're ever in the neighborhood. Checking out the selection will give you an idea of what these vehicles look like. Most people find them to be the perfect combination of luxury car and sporty SUV.

One of the coolest features this vehicle has is the built-in voice activated system that allows you to connect your smartphone for directions, music, telephone calls and even weather reports.

The Ford Escape comes in many colors including Ruby Red, White Platinum, Lightning Blue, Blue Metallic, Cinnamon Glaze, Magnetic, Oxford White, and Ingot Silver. All the colors are very nice and give this SUV a classy, extravagant look and feel. The interior is very comfortable and swanky, seating five. The rear seats drop-down for expanded cargo room which is great for transporting large items, even furniture. This vehicle would be great for antique shopping or hitting auctions as it holds a lot of items. It also makes a great car for having a picnic, hitting a great sporting event and tailgating or for a long drive to the ocean or a lake. It's surprisingly good on gas for a small truck like vehicle, getting 21/29 city/highway miles per gallon. The price range is excellent, and lower than many other SUVs in its class.

If you're in the market for a vehicle that does it all, from food shopping or dinner out, to vacation trips to long drives in the country, then this is the one for you. It will keep you moving in style and has many add on features such as AWD, power roof and parking assist. Take some time to compare Ford models before making a decision, as there are several that might be perfect for you. A car purchase is a big decision, and you want something that you'll be happy in for a few years. Be sure to take a test drive so you can get a good feel for handling and size.
